JUST TEN YEARS AGO

Ten years ago The Chronicle was publishing a list of its first one hundred subscribers in its first issue in Middleburg, Virginia. There were eight pages, a distracted editor-publisher and an equally distracted managing editor both wondering where the next hundred subscribers were coming from to say nothing of where and what would make up the next issue and if the generosity of the initial Middleburg advertisers would be expansive enough to subscribe to another issue. They were days of big breaths for each week meant a big breath to see if the infant prodigy was still alive. There was a small room in a new store building in Middleburg that was long and narrow, wide enough to get a desk in and long enough to practically lose sight of the man at the far end.

Gerry Webb was out on the high roads and by-roads trying to Gerry Webb was out on the high roads and by-roads trying to hi-jack some subscribers into shelling out a subscription to Middle-burg's first paper; a young lady was frantically typing; then Courtland Smith's son Reginald Smith, now an owner of a flourishing antique business, was persuaded to join the group so that there were three of us. A move was made to the present building owned by Dr. and Mrs. Spitler, good citizens of Middleburg; the work went on apace and after two or three tremendous breaths, it looked as if the child would live.

The editors were helping the printers fold papers by hand in Berryville; trying to coax a sufficient number of turns out of an old Berryville; trying to coax a sufficient number of turns out of an old flat bed press to produce the requisite few hundred papers necessary to round out the mailing list, while several ladies in the community were writing columns for the budding periodical. Vaughn Flannery sent Booth Tarkington's prescription for a mint julep; a subscription came from Thomas Girdler of Republic Steel. Newbold Ely, known not only for his foxhunting, but also for his writing of hounds and hunting with the but recently defunct Sportsman, asked the publisher to come up to see him in Philadelphia. Things looked better. Then the Masters of Foxhounds Association signified their willingness to have the new magazine act as their official house organ. The New Yorker published an item from the new hunting journal that read due to a printer's error, "Mrs. Harper riding astride on the off side." The New Yorker although not a sporting publication in the strict sense of the word, complained of being slightly confused. The press continued to miraculously creak out from its 50 year old maw enough papers for a growing number of subscribers while some horrifyingly gossipy articles whetted the appetites of the local denizens for more of the same. for more of the same.

Hunting actually formed the basis for The Chronicle in the Fall of 1937, and the popular appeal of Virginia as one of the country's great centers was the reason for the response to its publication. England had its Horse and Hound, why not a sporting Chronicle for the United States? It is strange what ten years will bring. Not a long time in space of years and yet a major war for which all three editors departed, leaving the comparatively toothless babe in the hands of the latest addition to the editorial ranks, Mrs. Nancy Lee. Don Henderson helped run The Chronicle during the first part of the war. Then hard working Nancy Lee ran it with equally hard working Business Manager Kenneth Levi. The war time conditions made it almost a superhuman task, but the magazine went on, never missing an issue, while the late John Bowditch to whose memory the man-

FOREWORD

W. PLUNKET STEWART, M. F. H. President of The Masters of Foxhounds As

Following a custom inaugurated several years ago by The Chronicle of publishing in one of its October issues the roster of the foxhunting organizations, in the U. S. A. and Canada, a complete list is given in this issue.

It is gratifying to note that in spite of a few of our hunts being disbanded, others have come into being, so that to-day there are the same number in existence as there were last year. This, I think, substantiates the belief that interest in the sport is not on the decrease.

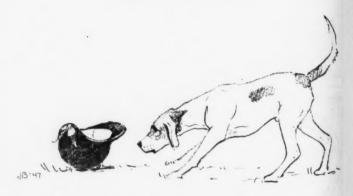

In the past few years there has existed a great deal of propagand against the fox, and indeed a crusade has developed against them.

This concerted effort on the part of gunners and the general public to eliminate the fox is absolutely contrary with the procedure of good game management, as voiced by such unbiased authorities as The National Audubon Society, The Wild Life Protective Association, The Wild Life Management Institute, and the U. S. Fish and Wild Life Service.

When the controversy about the foxes' place in the wild life community was limited to fox hunters and bird hunters, the above community was limited to fox hunters and bird nunters, the above association and their scientists gave little heed to the question, but so vicious an attack has been launched against Reynard that the results are producing serious disturbances in the problem of game management. Hence a serious movement is on foot to educate the public on the true status and function of the fox. Let us hope that this fine work will have the support of every fox hunter, because the experts tell us that with the elimination of the red fox, farm production will suffer greatly from rodents, so obviously even more is at stake than our sport.

As President of the Association I send my greetings to you and best wishes for a happy and successful season.

agement of The Chronicle owes everlasting thanks, put his shoulder to the wheel until more advertising and subscriptions rolled in.

At length the war was over and there was time to breathe again, to huff and to puff and put further wind against the sails that had caught the faint whispers of sporting life during the war and transmitted them on the record. Other fields of sport have been adopted Racing and Thoroughbred breeding became features; so did polo, steeplechasing, farming and horsemanship. There have been storms that have threatened the equilibrium of The Chronicle, such as the little item of World War II, gas rationing, racing bans, but nothing has been so shattering as the death of The Chronicle's managing editor last April. It was a sad blow.

Subscribers have been inexhaustibly patient and everlastingly cooperative with our small permanent staff. A constant flow of editorial ideas, comments and sporting articles come to The Chronicle office from every section of the United States. It has been an inspiration to feel the swelling tide of enthusiasm for everything about the sporting horse in this country. Such enthusiasm comes from every walk of life, anywhere where the appeal of the horse has found an eager flame. There has not been too much time to look around or to look back and there is still much to do and much to learn from experience and from the example that the good sportsmanship of others constantly teaches. One thing, however, stands out like a beacon light. The editorial contributions from the sporting men and women in this country and abroad have been the state factor factor. women in this country and abroad have been the great single factor which has made possible the first ten years of The Chronicle. Such cooperation is something for which The Chronicle and its staff are deeply grateful.

Letters To The Editor

Junior Riders

Dear Editor:

The

Dear Editor:

I have followed with keen interest and profound impressions your many recent articles on children and harse shows. Your editorial "Make horse shows. Your editorial it Plain to the Kids" in the i Plain to the Kids" in the issue of pt. 12th surely hits the nail on the sad—but you failed to include surselves among that list of boostsept. 12th surely hits the nail on the head—but you falled to include yourselves among that list of boosters!

My own interest is purely the outcome of natural consequences as I have a combination of "greenness", a young rider and a young horse, both of whom have had less than two years of horse show experience. However, in this space of time we have managed to take in quite a few shows, some large and some small—purely and solely for the fun of competition, sportsmanship and advancement in handling a mount. In a great many instances it has been very difficult to find in the prize lists classes in which a ten-year-old could exhibit without having to compete with seasoned riders and top horses. There may be an occasional equitation class or two scattered about but seldom anything like an owners up or pleasure class which would give a child of any age on any mount a feeling of equality. Then too, there are many young riders who have not advanced to the art of jumping who need a place to get started. No matter how good a rider he may be, the average child under 18 years feels licked before he enters the class when the competition is so overwhelming. I think the few shows that have the Junior Divisions are making some stride toward the encouragement of the youngsters. Better still, let's have more of the Junior Shows like the one recently held by the Deep Run Juniors. That was a great opportunity for the youngsters and other were many refusals, spills and other mistakes but they were not accompanied by that awful embarrassment that exists in a larger show where the older riders seldom make such glaring errors. Our future show iders will depend on these be children. rassment that exists in a larger show where the older riders seldom make such glaring errors. Our future show riders will depend on these children, but they must get that necessary ex-perience somewhere without being perience somewhere without being too far outclassed.

Your suggestion of a judge's comments being made known to a child rider is an excellent one. However, I don't agree that he should be asked to give his comments over the loud speaker. I think a more helpful plan would be to insist that the judges make detailed criticisms of each rider on the score cards and that a copy be sent to each participant. Thus he could learn about his own faults along with the merits of the better riders. Which by knowing he may be able to improve by observing and imitating.

In a recent local show, an equitation over fences class was held and

In a recent local snow, an equation over fences class was held and the children were very interested in the comments on the judges' cards and not the least resentful. "Too tion over fences class was held and the children were very interested in the comments on the judges' cards and not the least resentful. "Too stiff", "legs too loose", "humped over", "left behind", etc., were some of the comments. Now they have something to work on.

As to togs, that should have some consideration too. Naturally, the over all picture presented by good looking outfits is impressionable. But breeches, coats, boots and correct apparel in children's sizes are dificult to purchase in most stores, and those available are extemely expensive. It might be well to know whether a sloppy appearance is a result of indifference or financial circumstances.

The attitude that a child takes toward a judge and his decisions can be greatly influenced by reasoning and preparation beforehand. I preach to mine that she goes to a show for experience and her own amusement and that when the time comes that she is disgruntled because she doesn't win, she can stay at home—that the judge knows more than she does or he wouldn't be in the ring. So far, it's working like magic in spite of a sizeable collection of trophies and ribbons!

Keep up the good work on your enthusiasm for the kiddies as The Chronicle is the horseman's Bible and eventually these horse show committees will listen to you and the results will be inevitable.

Sincerely yours,

Ellen D. Huffman

Sincerely yours, Eilen D. Huffman

A. H. S. A. Medal Class

Dear Editor:

May I reply to the letter of Mrs. Maude French referring to the A. H. S. A. Medal Class in The Chron-icle of September 26th.

H. S. A. Medal Class in The Chronicle of September 26th.

Mrs. French makes the point that this event has lost some of its sportsmanship due to the practise of some exhibitors of rushing from show to show in order to compete in it.

This Association is entirely aware of the condition which has arisen and is taking steps to counteract it. Several weeks ago our Equitation Committee met in New York and adopted recommendations concerning the specifications of this event which should prevent the present evils in practise. Also about two weeks ago and at the request of the Editor of Saddle and Bridle I forwarded to that magazine for inclusion in the December issue an article describing the Medal Class. That article outlines the evils regarding which comment is made in your paper and indicates the corrective measures which it is expected our Directors will adopt concerning it In other words the Association has had this matter in mind for some while and has already taken remedial steps which will be effective beginning Jan. 1, 1948. It is not possible for us to change the conditions of the current contest in the middle of a year.

Very truly yours. of a year.

Very truly yours,

Adrian Van Sinderen, President, American Horse Shows Assu.

Creve Coeur Races

Dear Sir

Dear Sir:

Last Saturday, September 20, I attended one of the most delightful days of Amateur steeplechasing it has ever been my privilege to witness. These races took place on the Harley Heyl Pony Farm at Washington, Illinois. They were known as the Creve Coeur Races and sponsored by Mr. Dave Cummings of Washington, Illinois, assisted by a very capable Committee. Mr. Carter Brown of Castle Park, Michigan, and Tryon, North Carolina, cooperated in the laying-out of the course and in an advisory capacity, to Mr. Cumin an advisory capacity, to Mr. Cummings and his committee.

I do hope that you will receive a complete and vivid report and description of these races, as it would certainly make interesting reading and have cause to give great enand have cause to give great en-couragement to those of us sponsorcouragement to those of us sponsoring these "Sports for Sport Sake" Hunt Race and Steeplechase Meetings. This affair was exactly the type of thing that Gerry Webb worked so hard on while he was with us and I think the type of thing that Algernon Craven and Bill Hunneman are lending their untiring efforts to.

forts to.

It was particularly regrettable to me to read correspondence from The Chronicle to this association, which correspondence indicated a lack of interest in any publicity and particularly interest in soliciting several ads for the meeting. Unfortunately and evidently The Chronicle did not know that this was an enthusiastic attempt by real Sportsmen to further the cause of this type of meeting without a multitudinous amount of without a multitudinous amount of funds where extensive advertising without a multitudinous amount of funds where extensive advertising could be indulged in. A short resume of this affair, prior to its occurrence would have made very interesting reading for many thousands of your subscribers and would have helped a cause that The Chronicle is evidently supporting, according to articles and editorials which I have read.

Proof of the Midwest's desire to

I have read.

Proof of the Midwest's desire to go forward in this field of sport is evidenced by the fact that there were some 28 horses trained, fit, and ready to go, shipped in for this meeting. All races were very well filled and highly contended. The course was excellent, and every race was excellent, and every race was was excellent, and every race was an individually and hotly contended affair. It is hoped by many of us that in the future, The Chronicle will find itself ready, willing and able to give a meet of this character some support even though it is not, in its first year, able to meet au

English Character Clearly Depicted By J. N. Sartorious

The work of J. N. Sartorious, so well depicted in the picture owned by F. Ambrose Clark, reproduced this week on the cover is like much that has to do with the 18th century. that has to do with the 18th century.
It is solid. Just as the characters of that time were solid, eating and drinking prodigiously if contemporary accounts can be credited, the art has the substance and solidity that was England in its period of rural greatness.

Before the industrial revolution, before the Napoleonic Wars cast their shadow, England was a rural haven, the sportsmen content with their life and the countrymen happy too in more simple pleasures than driving 60 miles an hour to market and the moving pictures. J. N. Sartorius reflected this stability in his paintings. Although the latter part of the 18th century, he changed it not one iota from the traditional and earlier type of rocking horse form of his father John Sartorius.

The Sartorius paintings are splen-advertising budget, capable of advertisement in what I consider to be the country's leading newspaper in the hunting, race meeting, and steeplechasing field.

My respects to you and your organization. The Chronicle is a Bible with me, and I think sometimes all of us must find fault with even our most cherished ones.

Sincerely,

L. F. Caufield

Oakbrook and Spring Roads, Hinsdale, Illinois.

Editor's Note: The Chronicle regrets sincerely its inability to give proper preview publicity to sporting events. To do this for one would mean to do it for all with the result that The Chronicle news coverage would be nothing but previews and the important story of the events themselves would have to be relegated off the page for lack of space. This we cannot do.

did examples of the art of the period but they are much like the old die hard Conservatives of Number 10 Downing Street. They resist change, not so much in restment against intruders, but because the old fashioned methods are sufficient to express the point. In the painting Full Cry, horses are stretched at a full gallop, so are the hounds, and as hounds should be covered by a blanket, so they are in the picture. The artist painted as hunting should happen, with everybody galloping, everything in motion and the whole heavy and substantial as was rural England in 1775. It is a colorful and animated scene, but it is not the imaginative one of the later Marshall, Stubbs, Tracy, Alken and Herring.

Developing A Thoroughbred Hunter Type Mr. Stewart's Cheshire

Twenty-Five Year Program of Selection Would Do Immense Good In Furnishing Strain With Stamina, Disposition, Soundness and Quality

Hark Forrard

Hark I

In our previous consideration of the Thoroughbred strains which should be selected as the basis for the formation of a breed of hunters we noted that as to stamina, safety of action and disposition the sprinter strains are superior to the stayer strains; that as to soundness and smoothness of action the stayer strains are superior; and that as to quality and substance there are wide differences between strains, but that these differences are found among both sprinters and stayers.

It follows that any attempt to create a breed of hunters by selection will involve an exhaustive and careful study from the hunter point of view of the various Thoroughbred strains as they exist today. Some general conclusions along these lines have already been stated. We do not have at the present time however, sufficient data on which to base a really authoritative study along these lines. The reason for this is obvious. The race track test tells us what strains make good race horses, but not what strains make good hunters. To obtain the latter information a new set of tests must be evolved and put into practice.

Furthermore we must have an organisation to carry out these tests. Because they will necessarily have to be carried out on a considerable scale and over a period of many years a government organisation or one endowed by private capital is indicated. It is interesting to speculate what the Army Remount Service has been in existence for approximately thirty years. Army regulations have required that there should be a new Chief of Remount every four years. No specific breeding program has ever been developed by the Remount except the rather vague plan of raising horses which would make suitable officers' chargers and mounts for the Olympic team.

If the Remount, from its beginnings, had been charged with the

If the Remount, from its beginnings, had been charged with the specific task of creating a breed of remounts and hunters by the selection of Thoroughbred strains, it could, during its thirty years of existence, have finished the job—in spite of the frequent changes in personnel necessitated by the four-year tour of duty. Whether, if the Remount is transferred to the Department of Agriculture (as now seems likely), the latter will see fit to carry out such a program remains to be seen. The successes attained by the German and Hungarian governments with analogous programs at Trakehne and Babolna, as well as the need and opportunity, should encourage departmental officials. Certainly it would be a great thing for horse breeding the world over. Breeders of light horses of all sorts would turn with enthusiasm to a strain of Thoroughbreds that would reproduce itself with consistency and that would supply the disposition, soundness, quality and substance which we demand in our work and pleasure horses.

561 Fifth Avenue

If the program is not taken up by

If the program is not taken up by a government agency, the only solution would be a private organisation endowed with sufficient funds and for a sufficient period to obtain the desired results. Mr. J. C. Penney, for instance, has set up a fund to guarantee, for 50 years after his death, the continuance of the breeding program now being carried on with his foremost herd of Guernsey cattle. Some wealthy man should find equal satisfaction in endowing a program to create a breed of Thoroughbred hunters.

The establishment of such a If the program is not taken up by

The establishment of such a strain within the Thoroughbred breed is of quite as much interest to racing men as to hunting men—or should be. Buyers of racing stock insist on only one thing in a pedigree—speed and more speed. In consequence our race horse breeders are continually putting to the stud mares and stallions that are weedy, unsound and nervous, provided only that they have shown their ability to run with speed and to beget speed. There are already many signs that the breed as a whole is suffering from this tendency. There is also every probability that, in the not too distant future, race horse breeders will be hadly in need of a Thoroughevery probablity that, in the not too distant future, race horse breeders will be badly in need of a Thoroughbred strain to which they can turn for disposition, temperament and soundness. From the racing point of view the Breeding Bureau of the Jockey Club might well enlarge the scope of its activities to include such a program. Its present efforts, which involve the standing of a few stallions at moderate fees and the gift of a few mares to private breeders, although altogether admirable.

During late August and until 23rd September the weather in eastern Pennsylvania was not quite what one might call propitious for cubhunting. Day after day and week after week it was hot, sticky and humid, and just why hounds ran at all, or horses were able to gallop, is rather a mystery. However, they did both and gave the more enthusiastic of the Cheshire followers many most enjoyable mornings; and what is most important of all, cubs were invariably found in their accustomed places, and with an exceptionally promising young entry of nineteen couple of hounds, the season's prospects never seemed brighter or the green rolling hills of Chester County more inviting to the early rising foxhunter.

Straight running cubs are neither more inviting to the early rising foxhunter.

Straight running cubs are neither expected or especially desired during these adverse climatic conditions, but once in awhile the unexpected happens and horses, hounds and humans return to kennels quite exhausted, as they did on Tuesday, 4th September, when hounds ran steadily for 45 minutes before being stopped; and at one time on this humid morning the Cheshire followers were well rewarded by seeing the bitch pack emerge from an immense field of standing corn with three stout cubs just in front of them; and again on 16th September, the dog pack kept everlastingly at it in intense heat and humidity for 40 minutes from McCawley's Wood to mark their cub to ground at Runnymede.

It was also most gratifying on do not seem destined to have any very profound effect on the history of light horse breeding.

Whether it be a government department, or a private individual or a racing organisation, however, is immaterial as long as we can get on with the job. How big a job will it be? Twenty-five years or more will undoubtedly be necessary in which to set up the appropriate tests, to assemble the horses to be tested, to assemble the horses to be tested, to assemble outstanding representatives of the strains which the tests indicate as the most suitable, and to weld these strains into one which will reproduce itself consistently. The stud farm at which these tests are conducted should be equipped to handle up to 200 horses.

In the next issue we shall discuss in greater details the steps outlined in the last paragraph.

Orange County Tops Pack Class In American Division With Rose Tree Winning Penn-Marydel Class

A. Mackay-Smith-Wilbur Hubbard-R. P. W. Harrison

AMERICAN HOUND

For the second year in succession the big red dog hounds of the Orange County Hunt, (The Plains, Va.) captured the pack class at the 27th annual hound show held at Bryn Mawr, Pa., on September 28. It was the twentieth time that Orange County has shown at Bryn Mawr and there was never a doubt about the result from the moment Huntsman Sterling Leach gave a few toots on his cow horn and walked into the ring surrounded by five couple that looked up eagerly for the bits of biscuit which from time to time were thrown into the air to attract their attenion. The good backs of this pack, a point in which many American hounds are weak, were very apparent as they went through their paces.

Orange County had another repeat in the get of sire class which was won this year as well as last by Jockey '41 and three of his off-pring. The same hunt took first for the best couple of unentered dog hounds.

Principal individual honors for jockey '41 and three of his offspring. The same hunt took first for the best couple of unentered dog hounds.

Principal individual honors for dog hounds were taken by the Essex pack which won the class for unentered dog hounds with Rowdy (by falisman) and the stallion, entered dog hound and champion classes with Driver '42. This hound has wonderful bone and like all the Essex pack is smaller than average, a very desirable quality in these days of wire fences in that it enables a hound to slip through the small mesh easily. Millbrook won the couple of entered dog hounds.

Orange County took best entered bitch, brood bitch and champion with Gaffly '43 whose powerful quarters and loins and short back put her over the other members of her sex.
Middleburg brought out a big,
smooth, tri-colored puppy in Dinner
Bell '46 to win the unentered bitch class and teamed her with a little sister to take the couple of unenterdibitches. A pair of the lemon and white ladies from the Essex accounted for the couple of entered bitches.

The unentered hounds were of high quality, in many respects surpassing their older relations, all of which augurs well for the future of American hound breeding.

PENN MARYDEL HOUNDS

At the Bryn Mawr Hound Show a number of people asked "Why as separate ring for penn-Marydei Foxhounds? Why not show them with the other American Hounds?"

The answer is that originally they were so different in type that they could not be judged together. A judge who liked one type would not even consider the other, so they have been shown in different rings at Bryn Mawr for a number of years. I have been asked to write an explanation and to give a little background of the breed.

The peninsula between the Chesapeake and Delaware Bays comprises the nine counties of the Eastern Shore of Maryland and the three counties of the state of Delaware. For several countries this peninsula was so isolated by these budies of water that there was little opportunity to cross breed animals with those of other places.

The people of this section have hunted foxes since Colonial days, in fact the first red foxes ever imported from England were liberated here more than two hundred years ago. It was natural that these inveterate foxhunters would develop a hound suited to the country It had to be a hound with good enough nose to carry a line over the laige wheat fields and bare corn ground. In some sections of the Eastern Shore there are big wooded areas and here they need hounds with voices which can be heard at a great distance. So the outstanding characteristics are excellent nose and wonderful voice.

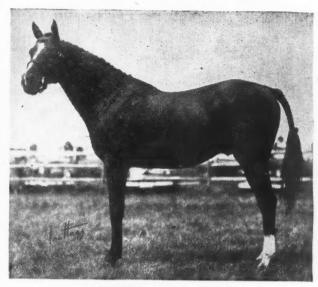

These hounds have been sold by farmer breeders and taken many SORTIE'S SON raced at 2-, 3-, and 4-years and won 8 out of 36 starts—placed 10 times.

Breeding?
SORTIE'S SON'S sire SORTIE won 11 races and $65,509; his dam LYDDITE produced the winners FLASH (14 wins) and BLAST (19 wins).
SORTIE'S SON'S bloodlines go back to such horses as Colin, Broomstick, and Carbine.

Ability To Get Good Hunters And Stripped Horses?

SORTIE'S SON has proved he can produce uniformly good quality foals, close-coupled, and with good size and bone, and with good dispositions (always important in a hunter or show horse.) An outstanding colt of his is TRANSPORTATION who has been seen in shows and, as a 3-year-old, has met and beaten most of the top stripped horses in the East. SORTIE'S SON'S get placed high at the recent Goldens Bridge Hounds Colt and Horse Show where three of his colts were in the ribbons.

SORTIE'S SON stands at $100 for the 1948 season, with a return in 1949 if the mare proves not to be in foal. (Return must be claimed before January 1, 1949.)

muzzle and lips give a square appearance.

Many of the earlier Eastern Shore hounds were heavy bodied and had two conformation defects, namely; loose skin under the throat and like most American foxhounds, the feet were longer than those praised by the advocates of the English "at footed hound."

Walter Jeffords, Esq., deserves special credit for his efforts to correct these defects. In the last 10 or 12 years great strides have been made by selective breeding in developing hounds with better feet and throats and lighter bodies with which to negotiate that bane of modern foxhunters existence, the wire fence, while at the same time retaining the nose and voice of the ancestors.

The show at Bryn, Mawr, this estors.

The show at Bryn Mawr

The show at Bryn Mawr this year was most gratifying to the meu who have been working with Penn-Marydel hounds, for there was marked improvement in the conformation of the young unentered hounds over the old type.

This was so pronounced that the class for best dog or bitch hound, in other words the championship of the show, was won by the young unentered bitch called "Jane", beed by Mr. Jeffords but now owned by Rose Tree Fox Hunting Club.

BEAGLES

Beagles were capably judged at Bryn Mawr's twenty-seventh annual hound show by two well known gentlemen of the beagle world, G. Kimball Clement, master of the Pentucket, of Haverhill, Mass., and John K. Cowperthwaite, Master of the Readington Foot, of Far Hills, N. J. Although the entry was not large, some of the best pack hounds of the east were on hand; and that which was lacking in quantity was most certainly made up in quality.

The Vernon-Somerset, the Liseter, the Treweryn, the Buckram, and the Bethel Lake were the five packs from New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania to bring "The Merry Little Hounds" to Bryn Mawr this year. Entries were also shown by Edward J. Johnson, Raymond W. Moyer, Freeman H. Crispin, J. Milton Layton, Louis Batjer, and Nicholas G. Richards. Five of the exhibitors listed carried away blue ribbons. Of the 21 beagle classes, one failed to fill at all, and seven more received only one or two entries. All but one of these disappointingly light classes were in the 13" division where, with the exception of the pack class, only three hounds vied for winning honors with 'entries from the famous Liseter pack of Mrs. J. Austin duPont. Liseter Hounds carried away the blue in every 13" class in which they were entered. Competition was keener in the 15" division with main contention being furnished by outstanding individuals from the Vernon-Somerset and Liseter Kennels. Richard V. N. Gambrill's splendid 15" hounds from Peapack, New Jersey, noted for their consistent quality both in the field and on the bench, held sway this year. Only twice did Vernon-Somerset abow to Liseter, once in the unentered dog class and once in the brood bitch class. Their only other defeats came in the stallion hound classes.

For this year's show the National sagle Club ruled that championing classes he opened to former For this year's show the National Beagle Club ruled that championship classes be opened to former champions, but that entered and breeding classes, both stallion and brood bitch, remain closed to previous winners. In the opinion of the writer, to have blue ribbon winners competing with former champions for the tri-color award is definitely working for the improvement of the breed. It was a pity that the Liseter was the only pack to take advantage of this new ruling and enter former tri-color winners in the championship classes. Most certainly the breeding classes should also be wide open to the very best individuals that breeders are able to produce. No stallion hound or brood bitch deserves a winning blue unless judged against the top ranking hounds of the day.

pionship class to be awarded a well deserved tri-color. Neither did his kennel mate, Liseter Merry Lad, by Foxatcher Merrymaker — Liseter Message, the unentered winner, nor Treweryn's Lemon-pie stallion hound, Minstrel' 41, named after his great sire, Waldingfield Minstrel, have either the quality or substance to match that of the former Bryn Mawr champion. defeated Liseter Merry Lad for the reserve ribbon.

The largest class of this year's show was for unentered 15" dog hounds in which 6 exhibitors entered 11 hounds to contest for the winning blue. Liseter Watcher was judged 1st ahead of Nicholas G. Richard's Lord Brentwood by ch. Royal Oak Ronny—Hay-Ray's Maybelle and Vernon-Somerset's Chaplin '76 by Marksman—Cricket. Watcher is a well developed youngster with great substance, bone, and depth of heart. This promising '47 get of Foxcatcher Merrymaker—Liseter Queen is also a beautiful mover.

Liseter Queen is also a beautiful mover.

Three fine looking Vernon Somerset hounds sired by Marksman out of Cricket by Confidence proved to be the class of the ring when the entered 15" dogs were judged. Marshall '44 a truly outstanding specimen of the 15" beagle, was awarded the blue over his litter brother Mailboy. Bully '45 not unlike his two older brothers in conformation and markings was pinned 3rd. Indeed the winner of the entered dogs proved the class of this division when he stood in the championship event against Liseter Watcher and the two stallion hound winners, ch. Royal Oak Ronny '42 by Charmac Gay Lad and Wattom's Deacon '44 by Charmac Drum Major, to receive the tri-color award. Vernon-Somerset Marshall's quality, substance, and balance leaves nothing to be desired and the judges hesitated but little in aming him champion 15" dog.

balance leaves nothing to be desired and the judges hesitated but little in naming him champion 15" dog.

The little bitch division was completely a Liseter show. Joyful and loy two striking looking get of Foxetcher Merrymaker—Liseter Message, placed as named in the unentered class. It is a pity that there were no 13" couples to contest against this beautiful pair. Full of quality and as alike as two peas in a pod, this couple of bitches would be mighty nigh impossible to defeat. Joyful had the conformation and quality to stand in the championship class and be judged the tri-color winner over Pepper and Pine Lodge '45 by Charmac Fay Boy—Judy of Pine Lodge, one of the former champions from the Liseter Kennels.

Vernon-Somerset placed 1, 2 in the unentered 15" bitches with two fine looking litter sisters, Mitsy and Maytime, by Midget—Busybee. In the entered class Mr. Gambrill's entry, Bittersweet '41 a well put up bitch with great quality and balance by Confidence—Bounty, captured another 1st for Vernon-Somerset when judges awarded her the winning blue over Freeman H. Crispin's Shady Dell Bombe '45 by Hobby Holly Tractor and the Liseter's good bitch went on to defeat Louis Batjer's Meadow Lark Rambler '43 by Meadow Lark Ramrod—Meadow Lark Rakish for winning honors in the brood bitch class. Lin is a remarkably well preserved bitch for her years. One finds it very hard to believe that she really is a 10th season hound. She is a well ribbed hound of good quality, an excellent brood bitch type. Vernon-Somerset Bittersweet was unquestionably the class of the large bitch division. There was no sign of hesitation on the part of the judges as they pinned her champion 15" bitch. Liseter Merrymaid '47 by Craftsman of Walnut Hall—Pine Ridge Cheerful, a former champion from Mrs. du Pont's pack was judged reserve over both the unentered and brood bitch winners.

The National Beagle Club of America Challenge Cups offered for the best 13" and 15" beagle, dog or bitch, bred and owned by the exhibitor were won respectively by Liseter Joyful the 13" champion bitch and Vernon Somerset Marshall the 15" champion dog.

Five 5-couple beagle backs were shown in the pack class at Bryn Mawr this year. After 6 years of competition, Mr. Gambrill's eager, even, perfectly mannered lot of Vernon-Somerset home bred bitches, shown to advantage by their capable huntsman Wilf Atkinson, scored their 5th successive win to retire the Second Vernon-Somerset Challenge Cup. The Liseter's beautiful 13" bitches defeated the Buckram shown by Joint-Masters Morgan Wing Jr. and John Baker, for the 2nd award. Mrs. du Pont's little bitches were also judged the winners of the Liseter Hall Trophy for the best 13" pack over the Treweryn mixed pack.

Bryn Mawr Horse Show, Bryn Mawr, Pa., was a superlatively successful one. A really breathtaking assembly of good horses, (the line-up for conformation after the Stake class was enough to knock your eye out), efficient management in the able hands of George Ebelhare and Algy Craven, the alert direction of that ringmaster-genius, Joe Mulranen, and judging of the authoritative and expert variety that precludes crabbing by Messrs. Bernard E. Hopper, of Winnetka, Illinois, George A. Humphrey of Cleveland, Ohlo, Murray T. all combined to bring Bryn Mawr back to the top.

The big outside course—big in height and big in distance—suited the horses to perfection, with the going just right after the rain, and the weather clear and cool, and some unforgettable performances were the result. Phantom Raider's round in Thoroughbred hunters. Prompt Payment's in the stake. Ittle Brandywine's in lightweight working, Cokesbury's in open hunters, all go into the book of things to cheer you in your old age.

The green classes were dominated by two greys of strikingly different types—Mrs. M. E. Whitney's brilliant lightweight. Safety Call, and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Clark's nearly 17-hand Mountbatten. These two swapped honors back and forth until the green hunter stake, in which Mountbatten lined up 1st, Safety Call 6th. The championship preliminary went to Safety Call. with Mountbatten 2nd, Mrs. Whitney's Adventure 3rd, and Springsbury Farm's Erin Beau 4th, but the championship still went on points to big handsome Mountbatten.

championship still went on points to big handsome Mountbatten.

Brandywine was at the top of his form and he looked the best bet for champion of the working division, but in the stake he rolled into the chicken coop too fast even for him and he all but stood on his head. Bellewood Farms' consistent Third Cail, given his usual steady ride by Miss Betty Mills, moved into 1st place on the championship chart, with Miss Nancy Haas' honest Ever So, which won the $1.000 working hunter stake, reserve. Mrs. Behney's Right For'ard which was a shade off his Chester County form, though he still had some enviable rounds, and Mrs. John Kehoe's Magno were also contenders for working honors throughout the show.

The open jumping classes illustrated here hard one man has to work.

throughout the show.

The open jumping classes illustrated how hard one man has to work when he jumps off against himself for 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th. This happened twice to George Braun, riding Sterling Smith's sextette of good jumpers, Sun Beau, Mr. Chips, Happy Landing, Kopper Queen, By Request, and Tiny Tim. Mrs. Robinson McIlvaine helped out in Friday's knockdown-and-out sweepstake by giving By Request a grand ride to beat George Braun on Tiny Tim, Sun Beau, and Mr. Chips. Sun Beau won the $1000 jumper stake and was eventual champion with Mr. Chips reserve.

The breeding classes showed a lot of quality. In Thoroughbred yearings, E. Q. McVitty showed a nice filly to win, and the other than Thoroughbred went again to Sydney Glass' engaging Koodoo colt, Wee Duke. Two-year-olds — Thoroughbreds went to Upton Sullivan's Honest Abe, (Timber Boy—Honor Bright), the previous week's breeding champion at Chester County, and Mrs. W. West Frazier 4th's good grey colt Glen Heather won the other than Thoroughbreds. (M. C. Gutman's Tourist Flight, by Tourist II, looked like a close contender, but was so full of oats and high spirits that Jimmy Barry had trouble keeping him still long enough for the judges to get a real look.)

I always take a long breath when I get to the children's classes. There's so much to say, so much happens in so short a time, these sporting kids and their hunters do such an astoundingly good job against a split-second schedule, that it is impossible to do them all justice. It is not unusual for a child to ride three or four horses in a class, and the sight of a small figure pitching off the back of one horse, snatching up the saddle and slapping it briskly on another and riding again in a space of a minute or two is something to warm the heart. And they have anxious parents to contend with too, remember—I'm one and I know—but any sign of impatience undepressure on the child's part is all too instantly reprimanded. No one but a very good sport could take it, and the fact that so many do, and account handsomely for themselves, is a great testimonial to the steady nerves of the coming generation.

is a great testimonial to the steady nerves of the coming generation.

Tommy Harvey's pony Kinlock led off the morning with a win in ponies under saddle, with Stoney Meadows' Little King winning the division for smaller ponies. Miss Elsie Wear followed her younger sister's Nancy's lead with a blue with Spitfire in the pony jumping class, and, with her mother and Nancy won the parent and child. Children's hunters over the outside course, always a grand class and a big one, was won by Miss Deirdre Hanna on The Rabbit. The Wear family, with Mr. and Mrs. Wear, Joe. Elsie, Nancy, and Priscilla. had a beautiful performance to win the family class (and I don't know a harder class to have a beautiful performance in) and their Little King again distinguished himself by winning the children's diving, to be followed by a blue to Blue Snow, ridden by Miss Elsie Wear, in the children's hunter hacks Miss Susie Ferguson's good Little Sister had a brisk round to win the children's hunt teams prize went to the brown team of Miss Deirdre Hanna's Darling B. Eddie Mooney's Brown Mist, and Miss Elsie Wear on her mother's Velvet Brown.

Highly Favored Eastern Team Defeated

Despite Loss of Smith and Mather, West Noses Out East At Meadowbrook In Special Match Game 9-6

Henry Lewis

Two teams made up of the best players from the East and West, played a special match game Sunday, September 28th at International Field Meadowbrook Club, Westbury, Long Island, for the mythical East-West championship.

Long island, for the mythical East-West championship.

I believe I am correct in saying the first time a truly East-West match took place was in 1933 when a team, led by the immortal Tommy Hitchcock, journeyed to Chicago to play against a western team, led by Cecil Smith. The game, which was won by the West, was exceptionally rough, as East-West feeling ran high and there were several very bad falls, one by Tommy Hitchcock which shook him up so badly that, although he continued to play, his effectiveness was lessened to such a degree that it probably made the difference between victory and defeat for the East.

degree that it probably made the difference between victory and defeat for the East.

This year the Eastern team was highly favoured to win. A week before the match the West lost Cecil Smith, their ten-goal star and captain, when in a practice game a hard hit ball driven by Alan Corey caught Smith on the head with such force that he suffered a slight concussion. Tom Mather, seven-goal cowboy star, was also injured and was out for the balance of the year. The West therefore had to substitute Tom "Red" Guy, a good six-goal player, for Cecil Smith and young Jack Ivory, a four-goal player from Detroit for Mather. The Western team was finally made up of Jack Ivory from Detroit, Peter Perkins from California, George Oliver from Idaho and "Red" Guy from Texas, riding in that order. The Eastern team rode with Pete Bostwick, Peter Grace, Stewart Iglehart and Alan Cory.

From the start of the game the West looked like the better team. Both George Oliver and Peter Perkins, who are two of the longest and hardest hitters in modern polo today, kept Stewart Iglehart just enough off balance so that "Mr. Polo" as the sports writers call Iglehart, was unable to dominate the game. The week before against the shorter hitting Mexican team, Iglehart playing the finest game of his career was outstanding but up against Oliver and Perkins, who played the same kind of game and played almost as well. Stewart had all he could do to play his own position and depend on his team-mates to carry the rest of the load. The match, although fast and exciting, was never very much in doubt as the West displayed better team work. The game ended with the score 9-6 in favour of the West.

East-West matches have always been the subject of a great deal of scuttlebutt and locker-room argument. The East has usually been represented by the Wall Street clique of polo or so-called moneyed interests. This has been a natural development of polo in the East since the game was introduced to this country by the Whitneys and Water-burys, who saw it played in Englan players, came up in polo this way.

Both East and West have developed great players by very different methods and the rivalry brought about by East-West matches is a healthy and progressive condition for polo in this country.

Middleburg Closes Polo Season With Falls Church Game

In the last game of the season played on Clarke Field, Middleburg, Va., Sunday, Oct. 5, Falls Church went down in defeat to the Middleburg Club by a score of 10 to 7. John Gayer paced the winners, making some outstanding shots, and 6 goals. J. M. Mulford, riding excellent ponies, kept the back door shut in good fashion.

Due to the dry weather and consequent condition of the field it was decided to close the season, and the Middleburg Club is holding an Argentine Barbecue Saturday, Oct. 18. All members of the team who have hit the ground owe the club a fifth of good whiskey for each fall. It is estimated that there will be close to two cases due.

Rolling Rock Opens Hunt Meetings

Two Days At Ligonier, Penna. See 71 Horses Compete In Top Racing As Tourist Index Wins Feature Gold Cup

Jacob E. Disston, 3rd

Editor's Note: Mr. Disston who was to have written both days of the meeting for The Chronicle broke his collar bone racing the second day and was operated on Monday morning to have his shoulder wired. His condition is improving but he was unfortunately unable to complete his assignment on the 2nd days' card.

Before a good mid-week gathering, the Fall Hunt Race meetings got off to a great start at Rolling Rock on Wednesday, October 1. Cloudless sky and summer green went to make the course a most beautiful sight.

The feature race, about two miles over brush, brought together for the first time in this country (they both rode in The Grand National) Martir Molony, Ireland's leading rider and F. D. "Dooley" Adams, considered by many as our number one jumping rider. Adams went postward on Samuel Fry's Valdina Scamp and Molony on Alvin Untermyer's Battle-Torch. Allison Stern's good mare, Tourist Index, however, was favored and ridden by Mr. J. V. H. Davis in a good field of 12.

Off to a poor start the field passed the grandstand the first time with W. H. Lipscomb's Jay Justleading closely followed by Tourist Index, Paper Cutter and Valdina Scamp lapped with Battle-Torch. This order prevailed for the first turn when Mr. Davis went to the front, Valdina Scamp and Battle-Torch moving into 2nd and 3rd a few lengths behind. Over the water before the turn for home the real racing began. Valdina Scamp and Battle-Torch both moving to the leader, but as they hit the turn Molony broke a leather on Battle-Torch and Valdina Scamp was pinched back trying to get through on the rail. Adams was able to get him running again and over the last fence they jumped together. In the run to the wire Valdina Scamp drew out to win by two lengths with Tourist Index 2nd and Battle-Torch 3rd. Walter Wickes' Big Bones finished fast to get up to 4th.

It was a popular win for the A. C. Stokes-trained gelding but some culoyment was taken away when Valdina Scamp limped back to the judges stand broken down in his left foreleg. Mr. Alan Scaife presented the A. M. Byers III Cup to Mr. and Mrs. Fry of Reading, Penna.

The 2nd feature of the day brought together eleven maiden timber horses at 3 miles and the most interest was centered on Mrs. W. C. Hunneman's eleven maiden timber horses at 3 miles and the most interest was centered on Mrs. W. C. Hunneman's eleven made every fence a winning one and won easily over the Sidney Warters trained Grand Illusion, owned by The Holiday Hit Farm. Mr. Bliss Flaccus' Maker Of Time, a first time starter over timber, was 3rd

The third race at one and three quarters mile saw Miss Cordelia Scaife's Sidney Watters-trained Golden Risk win easily with "Dooley" Adams up, making a win apiece for Adams and Molony.

In the last race of the day Sidney Watters sent two to the post for Mr. R. K. Mellon to go a mile on the flat and these two raced side by side the last half with Molony and Adams both riding hard, Molony winning on Dillsburg and Adams 2nd with Irish Easter. The judges had a difficult time separating these two and it was certainly a fitting end to a good day of racing, and a great tribute to two good riders.

Emmett Roberts also returned to the saddle after a long lay off to ride Sun Bath for Mr. R. W. Grant of Canada, finishing 3rd to Golden Risk and Many Flares in the third race.

ride Sun Bath for Mr. R. W. Grant of Canada, finishing 3rd to Golden Risk and Many Flares in the third race.

Racing on the second day at Rolling Rock, Saturday, October 4th featured the International Gold Cup, two miles and a half over the brush course in which 7 horses went postward and the winner, Allison Stern's Tourist Index received a great ride from Irish Jockey Martin Maloney

Horses for the timber race the Western Pennsylvania Hunt Cup, secondary feature, start at the beginning of the turn into the country at the foot of a long decline that run's down from the stand. They jump 3 fences in succession on fine, flat terrain, come up the hill to the stands along which there are 3 fences, the biggest being about 4 feet of solid timber, well slanted. The course then descends to the starting point. Originally there was a fence immediately at the foot of this hill, but horses rolled down so fast off the hill at the first meeting, and bunched up at the fence in a melee of thrills and spills that successive meetings saw the fence moved farther along on the course so that there is a fair chance to steady a horse running off the hill.

Saturday Alec Stokes had Martin Vogel's *Demas in his first Fall race in superb condition. This 12-year-old chestnut gelding by Silverstead—On Guard, a former show horse, showed amazing speed in his first racing effort at Warrenton and again at Radnor last spring. He was rank as could be, almost impossible to rate, but ran and jumped with a great free style that is breathtaking to behold but doubtless considerably more breathtaking to ride. Mr. J. E. Disston, 3rd was so far ahead at the last jump in Radnor's feature timber race last Spring, that he could have pulled up, trotted over the last fence and come in ahead. In actual fact, he did pull up as best he could. but *Demas had literally run himself into the ground, started to take off too far away, changed his stride, instead, got in too close, hit the fence and fell an exhausted horse off too far away, changed his stride, instead, got in too close, hit the fence and fell an exhausted horse unable to get to his feet for at least instead, got in too close, hit the fence and fell an exhausted horse unable to get to his feet for at least ten minutes.

The horse has such outstanding jumping abilities, that he is a tan talising proposition for Trainer Stokes but so far the getting him around the course has been an insoluble problem. As the horses went postward, Maker of Time looked to be in rare form, a fine brown son of Time Maker that started his career in Virginia hunting fields. Another capable looking timber horse is Clifton's Dan by that fine jumper stallion, Dan 4th. Mrs. C. S. Richards' Tino Wave with Mr. J. V. Arthur riding and Mrs. Georg. Strawbridge's France Forever with Mr. Edward, "Tiger" Bennett riding completed the assortment.

As the horses broke and took the first fence, running easily on the flat of the far stretch, "Demas moved at once to the front with Mr. Disston standing up in his stirrups to steady him. Mr. Arthur had Tino Wave tucked snugly under wraps a few lengths off the pace. Then came France Forever, Mr. Smithwick with Bliss Flaccus' Maker of Time and trailing the field, Mr. A. Brown on Dan Brewster's Clifton's Dan. The horses all appeared to be fencing well, Around the stands the order changed but slightly although Maker of Time moved up to 3rd position. Down around the far stretch again "Demas was seen to step out regardless of the best efforts of Mr. Disston to make the moved up to first on the stands of the best efforts of Mr. Disston Down around the far stretch again *Demas was seen to step out regardless of the best efforts of Mr. Disston to rate him back. In spite of this, he was far better than his last season'. performance when he just ran off to put a quarter of a mile between himself and his other contenders. His jumping continued superb, each fence appearing to be child's play as he stood off at the wings.

The second time around, it was apparent that it was to be Mr. Vogel's race if his horse continued to keep his feet but as always those who begin counting their chickens as promptly find themselves without any.

as promptly find themselves without any.

Down the hill *Demas got to rolling. Warmed up and full of run he carried Mr. Disston into the fence with such a rush that he could not begin to measure his strides, hooked hard and fell. As Mr. Disston reported later, he only hoped the horse was running so fast, he would throw him a mile away from the scene of the crash. The crash came and Mr. Disston came up with a broken collar bone while *Demas was led off to his barn playing and fussing as if he had not two hard miles and a bad fall under his girth, but only a good feed and a day of rest.

Without this tyro the race settled down to a duel between Maker of Time and Tino Wave with Clifton's Dan never seriously contending and down to a duel between Maker of Time and Tino Wave with Clifton's Dan never seriously contending and France Forever jumping badly and not up to his form of last Spring. As they jumped the last fence at the top of the hill and galloped up to the finish, 4 very tired horses, Maker of Time drew slowly away with Tino Wave, Clifton's Dan and France Forever following in order.

At Rolling Rock J. V. H. Davis had Allison Stern's Tourist Index, Tourist 2nd—Index in superb form to come in 2nd in the Rolling Rock Cup on Wednesday with Mr. Davisu and to win the Saturday feature, the International Gold Cup against a strong field with Martin Molony doing the riding.

Tourist Index is a young horse, 4-years-old but already showing great promise. Racing last year at the United Hunts, he ran unplaced but started off last Spring in Camden where he ran in the money. He continued to put on a good showing at Deep Run, Middleburg and Rose Tree, which last meeting with Mr. Davis up, he narrowly missed winning. He likes to run in front but Saturday, with Martin Malony rating him, he ran off the pace and liked it until the far turn and then climbed from 3rd position on up the hill, past Sun Bath and Compass Rose to win a perfectly timed race. It was interesting to see the use Molony made of his legs in this finish. Emmett Roberts had trouble with Sun Bath who hit the fence at the bottom of the hill while running in front with Big Bones the first time round. The reins went over the horse's nose and before the Middleburg trainer-rider gould get him back on the course Sun Bath was well down the shoot for the first fence in the timber race.

The first race on Saturday's program saw ten horses go postwards in the one mile and a half over hurdles.

The first race on Saturday's program saw ten horses go postwards in the one mile and a half over hurdles. These hurdles are constructed of sheep hurdles, slanted, with brush woven through them. They knock down flat when a horse strikes them and are quickly replaced by assistants at each fence. El Oro Ray, G. H. "Pete" Bostwick's owned and trained son of Invermark—Brilliant State set the pace with F. D. Adams on Richard K. Mellon's Deferment. Guilford Dudley's Production was running third. Molony with the ride on Alvin Untermeyer's Avis Bois laid off the pace and brought the 5-year-old son of Bois de Rose—Maidstone up on the final turn to win handily.

The third race of the afternoon convincingly proved the worth of Miss Cordelia Scaife's Sidney Watters trained Golden Risk. This 6-year-old gelded son of Riskulus—Golden Feast bought from Michael Kerr of Vitigina in 1946 while in training in Camden certainly shows Mr. Watters, Jr.'s eye for a horse. After, his wha on Wednesday with F. D. Adams in the saddle, Handicapper John E. Cooper of the NSHA, placed 152 pounds on Golden Risk, a 7 pound increase over his previous outing and Mr. Watters felt this additional impost would preclude his chance of winning as horses went postwards. G. H. Bostwick's Bisby took the first fence together with Golden Risk and then Bisby fell back to 3rd position, while Golden Risk continued in the lead up past the stands. Down the hill and going into the country Walter Wickes' Firebet also carrying 152 pounds, with J. Bosley 3rd riding, went into the lead, but along the far stretch Golden Risk moved out in front although from the stands he looked to be faltering ever so slightly.

Then it was that the big challenge of the race came. J. Oliver on G. F. Perry's Many Flares moved up to him on the far turn but Golden Risk with a great show of stamina and courage shook him off, resumed the lead and maintained it up the long hill and across the wire. It was a great race in which Many Flares finished 2nd and Walter Wickes' Firebet 3rd.

The final race, the Laurel Ridge, one mile and a half on the flat saw Ecnec, Identireon finished 2nd and Walter Wickes' Firebet 3rd.

The final race, the Laurel Ridge, one mile and a half on the flat saw Ecnec. Identiroon and Fonsilver battling for first position in the opening stages with Ecnec and Fonsilver giving place to Mr. J. V. Arthur riding Mrs. Jack Grabosky's Mechanize. David Odell's Done Sleeping with Jockey. Molony and J. W. MacNamara of Canada riding his own owned and trained Gypsy Monarch were held off the pace until the stretch run when the Irish and Canadian riders hooked up for a final drive that put Gypsy Monarch into first position by half a length in spite of the best efforts of the Irish boy. There were six horses from Canada at the meeting, three of them, from the stable of J. W. McNamara who has been racing at Woodbine, riding and training his own. This good sportsman raced his three entrants on Friday and Saturday preceding Rolling Rock, vanned them down Tuesday to race the next day and again on Saturday. The presence of the Canadian horse lent great impetus to the success of the meeting whose two days started the Fall Hunt Meeting season off in such great fashion.

Analysis of Hound and Hunt Records

Hounds Being Used To Hunt In America Today Have Varied Strains and Uses To Suit Local Sport and Conditions

A. Mackay-Smith

Three events of 1947 focus attention on the hounds now being used in the organised packs of America. The first, early in the year, was the publication of the Foxhound Kennel Stud Book of America, Volume VII, covering the period 1937-1945. The second was the Bryn Mawr Hound Show on September 25th. The third is the publication in this issue of the annual Hunt Roster.

From these publications we can get a statistical picture of the present state of hound breeding in this country. There are at the present time 109 packs registered or recognised by the Masters of Foxhounds Association. Six of these are in the process of reorganisation leaving 103 active packs. Of these 65 are devoted to hunting foxes only, 14 to fox and drag hunting, 17 to drag hunting alone.

The remaining 6 hunt varied and drag numbers, ing alone.

The remaining 6 hunt varied quarry. The Nantucket Harriers hunt hare with so-called "American Harriers", the Monmouth County hare and foxes with English Stud Book Harriers. The Mission Valley hunts foxes, coyotes and a drag with American and English hounds, the Arapahoe foxes and coyotes with English hounds only, the Cavalry School coyotes and a drag with School coyotes and a drag with cross-bred hounds. Last, but most versatile of all, is the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga., which with 18 couples of American hounds pursues a drag, foxes, bob-cats, and wild hear. wild boar!

There seems to be no particular strain of hounds which is generally accepted as superior for running a drag. Of the 17 packs devoted exclusively to this form of sport 8 use American hounds, 3 cross bred hounds, 2 American and cross-bred, and 1 each American and harriers, beagles and harriers, English and harriers, and English and cross-bred.

harriers, and English and crossbred.

The same remark can be made of the 14 packs maintained both for fox and drag hunting. Six of these use American hounds, 5 American and cross-breds, and 1 each crossbreds alone, cross-breds and English, and American and Welsh.

Of the 65 packs kept for hunting foxes only, 45 use American hounds. The next largest group in this division consists of the 6 using American and cross-bred, followed by 5 using English hounds, 4 using cross-bred hounds, and 2 using English and Welsh. There are also 1 each which hunt packs consisting of English and cross-bred, American hounds and arriers, and English. Welsh and cross-bred hounds.

It is interesting to enumerate the packs of foxhounds which have no American blood. The Shelburne in Vermont and the Genesee Valley in Western New York use a combination of English and Welsh blood. Those sticking to English blood alone are Mr. Stewart's Cheshire in Pennsylvania, the Chagrin Valley in Illinois, and the Montreal and Toronto in Canada, 7 in all. As mentioned above the Monmouth County uses English harriers. In the other divisions there are 3 packs using British blood only or a grand total of 11 Anglophiles.

Sixty packs use American blood only. There are 13 using American and cross-bred hounds, 4 using American and cross-bred hounds, 4 using American and some other type. This makes a total of 77 packs out of 103 which are using American hounds. In view of these figures it is not difficult to understand why the classes for American hounds filled readily at Bryn Mawr. In fact they were divided into two types (with separate stud books)—the American and the Penn-Marydel. Why should we not have had classes for other types of hounds, however? There is certainly enough English blood to make a good show. In addition to the 11 packs listed above, there are 6 more using English hounds in combination with other types.

As for the others there are 9 packs using cross-bred hounds alone, 13 using cross-breds and American, 4 using cross-breds and English, a total of 26. There would surely seem to be enough material here for a good cross-bred entry at the hound show. Apparently the difficulty is that in the past the cross-bred classes have been judged according to English standards. However, most of the packs enumerated above have cross-bred hounds of American type. Only a few, such as the Meadowbrook and the Camargo, adhere to the English type. The remedy here would seem to be to write new conditions for a cross-bred class to be judged according to American hound standards.

Beside the Monmouth County pack of English harriers, there are four more employing harriers in combination with other breeds. Here again it seems as though a few classes might be adequately filled.

Anyone looking through Volume VII of the Foxhound Kennel Stud Book will be struck by the remarkable progress the American hound has made in the last 25 years. There is no question of the antiquity of the American hound.

At the same time American hound breeding until recently has been anything but systematic. Anyone following the pedigrees back will be struck by how short they are, particularly when compared with those of English hounds which g

October. Hounds went out 93 times last season.

The country extends about 25 by 12 miles. The home country is open and rolling, with a great deal of grass. Outlying districts are rough and heavily wooded. Post-and-rail and board fences predominate. Strongly made hounds with a great deal of note and able to persevere without help are necessary for the country; this has been accomplished by the judicious crossing of American and English foxhounds. On the east side the country adjoins the Elkridge-Harford Hunt Club country.

IN THE BRITISH TRADITION

Men who follow the hounds are men who appreciate the British tradition . . . whether it be the excitement of the hunt or the measured ease of English country life. They appreciate, too, the unmatched excellence of British-made clothing and accessories . . . their casually correct tailoring, careful workmanship, and superlative materials.

At Lewis & Thos. Saltz, a wide selection of such clothing is now available. Burberry and Rodex outercoats, Chester Barrie suits, Lock hats, Braemar and Pringle Cashmere sweaters, Horace Sleep gloves, Tattersall vests, "Daks," Argyle hose, and many other fine old British names are represented. This is merchandise worthy of the best tradition.

Goldens Bridge Hounds Hound Show

Brewster, N. Y. Elstablished 1924 Recognized 1925

Master: R. Laurence Parish. Hounds: American. Hunting: Fox. Colors: Scarlet, black collar.

Rountis: Fox. Colors: Scarlet, black collar.

Thursday, September 11th:
Met at Salem Center and drew the country north over Philip Bondy's and Charles Wallace's farms and picked up a good line on Mr. Cowles' farm. As we jumped over a new post-and-rail on this farm four deer loped out to our left and dodged back in the woodland. We worked the fox line on the Lobdell farm when we came to a big flat rock where Reynard had been. They opened up and went away fast. crossing Hardscrabble Road and over Red Shield Farm and Stuart Bates' farm to concrete road Route 124, where our pilot turned left and raced over Red Shield farm; thence on to Hunting House Hill where we riewed our pilot slipping down over a rocky ledge. Seeing the path blocked by riders this nice big red stood still for a full minute until hounds were almost on its heels, then bounded across in front of field. The same thing happened a few minutes later on another trail. Then we circled over Red Shield Farm and Hunting House Hill section for about an hour and a half with hounds driving well but the heat was like mid-July and when we had a chance after hounds made a loss, we called off and hacked homeward. This was a good run and we hope to meet this Reynard when the weather is a bit cooler.

Saurday, September 13th:
Moved off from Rock Ridge Farm

saurday, September 13th:
Moved off from Rock Ridge Farm and hacked over the road and threw in near Hardscrabble Road and when we drew the swamp in William Meldrum's meadow, four deer an out so we lifted hounds and drew the Charles Wallace swamp where we found a fox that ran down belancy Road and through Salem Acres and back over Dr. Dunning's farm and headed for large woodland on Harry Caesar's. We called off and drew south into Battery Farm woodland where we picked up an old line and trailed for about a mile where hounds jumped Reynard hot and after getting him off the stone ralls ran north over Philip Bondy's "Windswept" Farm where the pack split almost evenly. We stopped one pack and got them all on the one line. We ran north to Hardscrabble Road where the fox was turned by a motor car and while we were fooled which way fox had doubled back, it was just simply too hot for hounds, horses and riders so we called off. A very good morning considering the humidity.

Tuesday, September 16th:

sidering the humidity.

Thesday, September 16th:
The field met at Hill Top Farm, home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tompkins; after an all-night series of electrical storms and very heavy downpours, it cleared away just before hounds left kennels to hack to the meet. As we moved off the sun broke through the clouds and the weather was more like hunting weather than any day so far. We cast hounds in Hunting House Hill and found about 5 minutes after moving off. Scent was excellent. Hounds maced over the surrounding country-side for about 40 minutes and marked their fox in a rocky ledge on northside of Hunting House Hill. We drew east over Hill Top Farm and Red Shield Farm which proved blank but going over Star Ridge picked up an old line but failed to get our fox afoot. We circled Peach Lake swamp and cast hounds in same. On Arthur Vail's side of swamp they found a nice red that ran through this huge swamp, then went over Mr. Miller's Star Ridge Farm. Then over these nice green fields to Mr. Ryder's where our pilot headed south and crossed Peach Lake Road and over to Rock Ridge Farm where we doubled back over the same road, crossing Bloomerside golf course and marked in Bloomers' woodland. This was by far the best morning of the early season. This run lasted over 1 hour with only one check. Corinne Hungerfor-i

Calumet's Free America, Citation and Bewitch Make Triple Threat For Next Year's Racing As Principle Winners of 2-Year-Old Honors

Salvator

Last Saturday was what is ordinarily supposed the "biggest" day of the eastern racing season. Namely—Futurity and Gold Cup day at the eastern ra —Futurity and Belmont Park.

Belmont Park.

However, the frosting, as it were had been peeled off the top of the cake by the attempt at something still more super-duper on the previous Saturday; when in addition to the $100,000 funeral procession in which Assault played the role of the corpse and Armed that of the undertaker—we beg pardon, mortician—no less than three-other top-line events were carded.

In consequence, Futurity-Gold line events were carded.

In consequence, Futurity-Gold Cup day, for which we have in times past usually been wrought up to a high pitch of anticipation, failed to hold the old thrill. It "came and went", another name was added to the roll of winners of each—and that was about all that can be said.

The Calumet Farm Stable, which had spent all summer in the Chicago sector, gathering therein much kudos and a superfluity of applause, when it shipped west, about a month since, to wind up the "regular" season there, took with it the most formidable trio of two-year-olds that have been assembled under the same colors in many a season, if not ever.

They consisted of a filly—Bewitch

They consisted of a filly—Bewitch—and two colts, Citation and Free America—the filly being unbeaten in eight races and the two colts beatable by her alone, on which occasion they finished one-two-three in the Washington Park Futurity. While, as stated, in that event the filly got home first, her two stable companions of the male sex conforming to the maxim "Place aux dames"—well, it was rather apparent that their courtesy was the deciding factor; as "with the breaks off", either one of them looked abla to have outfinished her.

Of the pair, Free America was considered by the connoisseurs to be the better—an impression that also prevailed with Trainer "Jimmy" Jones; who, indeed, expressed the "inside" opinion that he was the best junior that ever had carried the "devil red" and a most flattering prospect for next year's "classics".

"devil red" and a most flattering prospect for next year's "classics".

But, like his namesake, the farther east Free America got the worse luck he experienced. When he left Chicago he looked and acted as "sound as new money"—but only a short exposure to the Atlantic seaboard finished him as far as his Futurity prospects were concessed, as he developed lameness that put him on the shelf; where, apparently, being ineligible for any of that Aid For Europe now the all absorbing topic, he remains, high and dry.

This left only Citation and Bewitch to double in brass for Calumet. Bewitch got her chance to exert her necromantic powers in the Matron but they failed to work. The officials objected to some of the methods of her witchery and shows—alas!—disqualified and placed last.

Citation, however, went up anoth-

In his race preparatory to the Futurity he came through very easily, which made him, in Shakesnearean phrase, a copper-riveted cinch. The consequence was that the double entry of the colt and filly ruled the market.

market.

And with reason, for he came home a three-lengths' winner, while Rewitch managed to finish third. the nair heing split by William Woodward's Whirling Fox, a colt that has not won a race this season but that a good many of the farsighted are even now getting ready Continued on Page Thirty-three

Calumet Stables Continues Its Fabulous Winning Streak; Whirling Fox and Citation Show Top 2-Year-Old Form For Derby

Bob Kelley

In spite of the fact that a large disturbance was going on at the same time in two boroughs of New York, Brooklyn and the Bronx, the next to last Saturday of Belmont's Autumn meeting found more than 40,000 still interested in racing and provided for that sizeable group one of the best afternoons of racing the plant has seen. Perhaps one of the best afternoons that any track has seen in some time.

Calumet Again

The fabulous Calumets took over in the Futurity, but in between the colt and the filly came one that may in the Futurity, but in between the colt and the filly came one that may be heard from even more than either when they turn the corner next spring into their 3-year-old seasons. Coming on at the finish, as he has been doing in most of his races, was the Whirling Fox. If this one trains on, maybe old Mr. Fitz will have another of the Kentucky Derby.

Citation, in his two races during the week, proved himself a first rate youngster. He won handly and impressively in the Futurity Trial and he certainly had command of things at the end of the 'chute in the big one. In Citation, Calumet and the Jones probably have the winter book favorite for The Derby. In Bewitch they have a very good filly, but apparently not another Busher as many seemed to think.

She is a handsome filly, very

She is a handsome filly, very handsome, and moves over the ground nicely, but she is not quite the world beater many supposed her to be. It was unfortunate she had to be disqualified in The Matron, but there was nothing else to do with her that day. She ran a good deal straighter the second time down the Widener Course, but she couldn't hold off the closing rush of Whirling Fox.

Incidentally, this visit to New York on the part of the Jones—Father Ben and son Jimmy—made it clear to those who watched them around the track that Jimmy is really the trainer now. There have been those who said that the elder man was still actually training despite his retirement to the post of general manager of Calumet. He does offer advice and the father and son work beautifully together, but there were several days before the ill fated Special between Armed and Assault when Ben was not even on Long Island. Jimmy trains, and does right well with it, also.

Phalanx Best Of The Three-Yr.-Olds

Phalanx Best Of The Three-Yr.-Olds
The afternoon also proved quite definitely that Phalanx is the best of the 3-year-olds. True, he has been beaten by his own age this year, but never except when he was giving them weight. That Jockey Club Gold Cup was, despite the fact the field was only three horses, a truly thrilling contest. It was what everybody had hoped the Special race might prove to be. Stymle, forced to go to the front at the start, had no pace and was out of it at the finish, but there have been few stretch duels to equal the thrilling one put on by Talon and Phalanx.

If Phalanx were raced in France or South America on turf course and at the longer distances that are found in those countries, he would be world famous. His somewhat, gangling stride is not too good for the skinned surfaces and fairly sharp turns of our courses. He seemed almost awkward during the first mile of the Gold Cup marathon. But then, when he settled down at the finish, he was really moving beautifully and the two game horses pilon a grand show.

Monday, September 29, the steeplechase allowance race saw a really good horse meet a tragic end when Montpelier had the misfortune to lose Annotator. The short priced favorite, he was running strongly when he fell at the last fence and had to be destroyed right on the race track, as his leg was so badly broken that it impossible to even load him on the horse ambulance. Luckily Jockey M. Fife was unhurt. The victory fell to Rokeby Stables Genancoke, the Jack Skinner trained grey gelding having made most of the running. Greek Flag came very fast for 2nd money, but couldn't make it, while Scurry Gal scurried into 3rd spot. Drintown, Battle Cruiser and Sugar Stick completed the line up.

September 30 found 6 Class D brush horses in the paddock. Rigan McKinney's lead pony was featuring tarleton bandages this day, (perhaps the family plaid?) and Morris Dixon had an entry of 3, which prompted someone to remark, "He certainly runs his horses in wholesale batches" Hampton Roads, that grand looking son of Annapolis, did his best to atone to Montpeller for their tragedy of the day before by running a slashing race to win. His score now is 4 starts, 3 victories. Curious Arab was on the front end all the way, but cut himself up pretty badly when he made a bad jump at the 9th. Clonshee, a 2nd time starter, and one of the "whole sale batch" entries, ran very well for a green horse to be 3rd in such company, while Creamery, New Puzzie Premise and Sander got around without incident.

All sorts of things happened October 1. A track record that had hardly had time to dry was broken, a good horse ran his second jumping race that proved to be his last, and a jockey was hurt after the race was finished. Medal has proved before that he is a horse of class, and he certainly looked it yesterday when he drove up the stretch to win a length decision over Repeater, whose record he was clipping. Far in the ruck during the early part of it, he closed with great courage, and enjoyed an excellent ride by Jockey Merlin Fife. Repeater ran very well and hung on gamely, while Thirteen went postward in this allowance hurdle affair, and it proved an unlucky number for Thomas Mott and Miss Judy Johnson, as their good young horse Quandary (recently acquired from Greentree and considered an outstanding prospect) ran into a wing on the back side, breaking his hip. Within one week the infield has lost 2 nice horses. After the race was over everyone was surprised to see H. "Speck" Murdock and Himmelee on the ground by the first hurdle after the finish line. Why he had elected to jump an extra fence was never made clear, as he was removed to the hospital unconcious, suffering concussion and a broken collar bone.

What a horse race! After 3 miles over the big brush, the 47th running of America's premier steeple-chase, The Grand National, found 3 noses on the wire and a photo sign flashed up. The winner, Miss Ella Widener's Adaptable, had accounted for the Brook last week. He came from behind with a charge that looked like the Twentieth Century when well under way, and just got up to nip War Battle. The latter opened up a terrific lead, at one stage of the game. While he was clearing one fence the tail horse was jumping the one behind. War Battle and Elkridge ran 1-2 for the first turn, then the latter retired and Trough Hill took his place. The latter (which contributed to the spectacular finish, being awarded 3rd in the photo contest) was the lightweight of the field, being in at 139. War Battle, as always, had the grandstand aboard, 163 pounds. The 4th horse, Lowry Watkins Tourist List, ran a very creditable race, being close all the way. Delhi Dan came next, having jumped well but lacking the blazing speed the ton horses demonstrated, the race being run in the fastest time since 1937. Elkridge and Floating Isle came next, with Refuglo bringing up the rear. This department doubts if any other horse has ever run in both Nationals the same season. It is a coincidence that he finished 7th in each. The winner of this thrilling contest is owned by Miss Ella Widener, trained by Morris Dixon, and was bred by Elmendorf Farm's, Inc. He is a very imposing hav gelding. 6 years old, and is by *Blenheim II out of Black Queen by Pompey. The race was a credit to the soort of steeplechasing, and the crowds were wild with excitement. As always when a big jumping race is carded, the "tweedy set" was much more prominent than usual.

Another track record bit the dust October 3 when Bohemia Stables' bay gelding from Argentine, "Snow King 2nd, galloped home under Merlin Fife to score in a 2-mile claiming hurdle affair. He won very convincingly, and delighted the crowd, which had made him favorite of the 8 contenders. The rest of the field was made up mostly of the same familiars which have been filling this type of race all season, and which now know each other so well that they neigh greetings back and forth in the paddock. Mrs. Louis Stoddard's Wolfberry was 2nd, with E. G. Horn's Bar Ship 3rd. Slam, trained by Miss Judy Johnson, (who has had so much bad luck this week,) could do no better than 4th, while Albatross, (whose usual rider, "Speck" Murdock, is reported to be in a bad way after his fall early in the week) Master Jack, Fieldfare and Boiled Shirt finished in the order named. The horses were definitely running in competition with the Dodgers, as the paddock was full of people wandering around with portable radios tuned into the ball game.

The old adage that records are made to be broken certainly is holding true at Belmont. On Futurity day, the public that came to see the most brilliant racing of the season also saw Mrs. Ogden Phipps Look Around break the record that had just been set the day before. The Battleship, an allowance affair for hurdle horses at 2 miles, was just a gallop for the "Pete" Bostwick trained son of "Tourist 2nd. It was obvious the first time past the stands that Darrell Clingman had a handful of horse, and at the wire he was eased to a walk. Miss Dolly Von Stade's D'Artagnan seems to be getting better all the time, and out finished Pebalong for 2nd money. It could be that he fancies the 2 mile route more than the mile and 1-2 jaunts of earlier in the season. Big Wrack was 4th. followed by Gala Reigh (whose trainer told this department, who is given to referring to her as a bridesmaid, that she would be a bride in fact next spring if she didn't win a race soon). NARRAGANSETT SPECIAL

NARRAGANSETT SPECIAL

New England continues to suffer from the effects of swamp fever and the latest is the cancellation of the Narragansett Special. Of the 45 nominated for the Special, which has been increased this year from $35,000 to $50,000, only ? were on the grounds, W. J. Beattie's Linwood Jim, R. A. Brown's Tennessee Kid and Mrs. A. C. Randolph's Enon. The embargo that has been placed against the transporting of horses into Rhode Island as a precautionary measure against the spread of swamp fever has caused the cancellation of many of the stakes. Seven rich stakes had been listed but only the opening day Pawtucket Handlcap has been run.

MATCH RACING

the opening day Pawtucket manurap has been run.

MATCH RACING
Overheard just before the main event of the day, Armed versus Assault at Belmont, a laconic male voice inquiring, "Well honey, have you seen enough races for today?" Assault was already in his stall in the paddock—a uniformed valet was the advanced guard for the only other contestant—An anxious and absentminded track official bustled up to the valet and asked. "What have you got there, Armed?" Over the loudspeaker the final announcement on the greatly touted match race. "Results of the 5th race are official—number one, Armed first—number 2, Assault, second." Just as neat and tidy and inevitable as that!

SYMPHONY IN COLOR

and tidy and inevitable as that:

SYMPHONY IN COLOR

The resplendent attire of Rigan McKinney's sartorially superb lead pony was further enchanced by red and blue tail bandages, which tastefully repeated the color scheme of the silks of the winning 'chaser he was chaperoning in the paddock.

TURF HIGHLIGHTERS

Among the many who were seen lunching in the Turf and Field Club the day of the match race were: Henry Parr, the president of Pimico. Prince Djordjadze, the owner of Princequillo, Harvey Firestone, who races a successful string in these parts, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Townsend.

these parts, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Townsend.

RACE TRACK CHARACTER

There never was a more beguiling animal than Lucas Dupp's half Thoroughbred piebald lead pony.
This hard working mount of the outrider leads the field postward 8 times a day, catches casualties and runaways, and generally is responsible for law and order at all the New York race tracks. Between races he stands in the paddock,
"shaking hands" with all passerbys by raising his fore foot, this being his way of asking for sugar. Known as "Slick", he is a race track character.

JOCKEY REHEARSAL

JOCKEY REHEARSAL
It sounded more like a theatrical dressing room than the paddock a few days before the jockeys ball.
The elite of the reinsmen gave an entertainment and could be heard calling back and forth as they paraded post ward, "See you at rehearsal tonight."
NOT WITH REGARDS

sal tonight."

NOT WITH REGARDS

The leading Thoroughbred sire in the United States was recently relegated to the obscurity of the paddock rather than the spacious stall in the stallion barn where visitors could read about him in a booklet and observe him in the stable. What brought all this about was a pair of scales. At Warren Wright's Calumet Farm near Lexington, Ky., none of the stallions are allowed to put on too much weight. Reading the number of pounds after Bull Lea stepped on the scales, Manager Paul Ebelhardt decided that he was a bit too heavy and that more paddock duty and less stable duty would be the answer. As visitors walked from the stallion barn to the paddock, Bull Lea would stretch his neck over the gate, look longingly at the barn, cast a wistful eye at the people, find they weren't going to open the gate sigh, amble around the paddock again. Each new face was a new prospect to be given the same approach.

MARTIN MONOLY

Martin Molony the Irish jockey who flew over with Captain Cyril B. Harty, associate of David Odell's Irish Bloodstock Importing business, for the Rolling Rock meeting, proved the sensation of the program. Winning two races the first day and two the second, and narrowly missing winning two others, coming second in the last race on the final day and breaking a stirrup leather in the Wednesday's brush feature. Martin Molony is to be congratulated. Captain Harty said he. was as pleased as if he had won one of the big Irish classic races and predicted a flood of boys wanting to come over to race next season if there were the horses available. Molony's brother Tim Molony won the Stanley Steeplechase, the big race at Liverpool the day before the Grand National this year. Martin Molony, in spite of coming from a racing family, was not too keen about racing. He suddenly got interested after showing a marked distaste for it, and is now one of Ireland's leading riders. His seat is an interesting one. He rides a little longer, sitting back as his horse lands somewhat more than do our riders, although he did not employ the exaggerated lay back of the National riders at Liverpool that is made necessary by the size of the English fences. What was really striking about his riding, however, was the terrific use he made of his legs. He sits very still, moving in beautiful unison with his horse, but his legs are never still. horse, but his legs are never still, and in his finishes, he could noticeably be seen driving his horse forward with real leg power. He is a fine artist and it was an inspiration to see him ride.

to see him ride.

BUBBLE GUM CRAZE

A group of aspiring jockeys who are in the Middleburg locality for the purpose of breaking yearlings, were seen buying 100 pieces of bubble gum. In a few minutes a contest was on, and it seems that the budding jocks were more interested in becoming bubble gum champions instead of top notch reinmen; or perhaps a new way of clucking to their mounts will come out of the latest fad that has hit young America.

Saratoga Sales Notes 1947

This year horse sales in general experienced a shift toward a buyers market. Auctions over the country averaged off from 20% to 50%.

In such a situation, the basic laws of economics offer maximum security to the breeder. The odlest selling adage in the world advises us that the best market for any product is where the greatest number of potential buyers are naturally located. The Saratoga Sales tradition owes much of its strength and permanence to its close adherence to this paramount economic law.

Great Britain Immediate Effect of Petrol Rationing In England Is Drastic Drop In Prices Of All Bloodstock

J. Fairfax-Blakeborough

No one quite knows yet what the effect upon sport the petrol cut will have. The other day a number of Turf officials and hunting men were discussing the cancellation of the basic ration to come into force next month, and fears were expressed that several of the smaller National Hunt meetings would not be possible in view of the fact that the majority of those in "Tatts" at anyrate, come by car, and the income from car parks is essential to financing such fixtures. Masters of Hounds say definitely that they cannot hold these point-to-points if the petrol restrictions continue until the Spring. The only revenue from such meetings is from the car parks and the sale of cards, there being no charge for admission.

So soon as the new petrol regula-the sale of cards, there being no charge for admission.

So soon as the new petrol regulations come into force the number attending race meetings generally will be materially reduced. Nor is this all. The feeding of Thoroughbreds and hunters is to be made still more difficult. The immediate repercussion has been that there has been a sudden drop in the value of horseflesh. Indeed, one well-known auctioneer the other day remarked "the bottom is out of the bloodstock and hunter market". Breeders have not been slow to recognise this, and several reduced by fifty per cent the reserves they had placed on their horses at recent sales. The long drought has burnt up grass in the pastures, it is impossible to buy old oats, hay is going to be at a premium, and the future of racing is uncertain. Under these circumstances there is little wonder that blooding their hands.

Triple Dead Heats

Triple Dead Heats

This question was put to me the other day. "At what meeting and in what year was there a triple deadheat, and was the occasion unique in the history of racing?" The answer is that triple dead-heats are not unique. There was one at Newmarket 10th, Oct. 1877 in the Bretby Stakes. At Newmarket 23rd April 1924 Hope Deferred, Vaddy and Buddha dead-heated. Sept. 21st 1923 Dinkle, Marvex and Dumas dead-heated in the Royal Borough 3-year-old Handicap at Windsor, At Folkestone 1925 Breezy Heather, and Golden Book, and Rocos deaded-heated. There are quite a number of similar instances of the judge being unable to separate three horses. During my thirteen years as a Turf judge I never had a case of three dead-heaters.

The William J. Clothiers have been the guiding lights of the Pickering Hunt at Williams Corner, Penna. for many years, Mr. Clothier having been Master since 1911. Hounds are American, hunted by Edward Mooney.

Essex will hunt this year without M.F.H. Anderson Fowler who is concentrating his activities on politics and farming. Mrs. Charles Scribner and Benedict Johnson are Joint M.F.H. of the Essex pack of American Foxhounds, first recognised at Peapack, N. J. in 1912, and hunted by William Chadwell. Freudy Photo.

Warrenton's Amory Carhart has been Master of this fine pack of Virginia Foxhounds since 1932. Hunting a large country, Warrenton was able to record some of the longest and best runs of any pack in Virginia last season. They are hunted by H. D. Bywaters. Marshall Hawkins Photo.

The time was good if not sensa-tional. The field a smaller one than many of the past.

As for the Gold Cup, it was another melancholy exhibit of the depths to which distance racing has fallen in this country.
Only three came out to contest it and at the finish the victor was the rather infrequent (since last spring, risitor to the winner's circle, Phalanx, who beat the South American Talon in a driving finish by a narrow margin, with the once-great distance horse Stymie a distant third. It is apparent that Stymie is not the horse of yore—he has been traveling a thorny path of late, which the handicapper has assisted in making up hill all the way.
Sprinters can carry weight of from 130 lbs. up in race after race, week upon week, and hold their form—that is sometimes. But horses which are being asked to go up to two miles cannot, especially when they are being compelled to make enormous concessions to fast competitors.

lorse that "pays" is also always the god horse.

Nothing so exasperates a handicapper, to all appearances, as a really good horse. His main objective becomes the reduction of the said steed to the ranks of the just-anotherrace-horse classification.

When that noble object has been accomplished it seems to be histidea—and that of his employers—that he deserves well of his country and of the sport and is in line not only for the stipulated salary but a sifty bonus yellow the substitution of the seems to be flad Yule Tide.

And thus triumphantly progresses the Sport of Kings and the Improvement of the Breed of Horses.

Belmont's Final Week
This final week produces some highly promising action, much of which will be history by the time these lines appear. Most interesting of these is the Sysonby Mile, run as a stake for the first time this year and with the promise of a clash between Armed and Polynesian. This, however, failed to develop when Polynesian had to be sent back to the farm for a rest and thus has ended his days of racing in New York. The Widener speedster is to go to stud this winter, though he may race a bit in Maryland before that.

that.

There is the final day and still another of those $100,000 races which fairly clutter racing cards these days. This is the New York, a young race and raised this year. It is the longest big race of the New York season, at 2 1-4 miles, and Phalanx, the South Americans and Symle are expected to come together again.

Symie are expected to come as a symie are easain.

That same afternoon the Champage, longest two-year-old race of the New York season, at a mile, will have a superb field according to early indications. It is just possible this will produce, for the general mblic, still another fine looking 2-par-old, W. L. Brann's Escadru, a strong running colt who seems to be able to go a distance.

RACING AT ROLLING ROCK

RACING AT ROLLING ROCK

Kolling Rock's meeting at Ligonier, Pennsylvania provided some superlative racing Wednesday, October 1st and Saturday, October 4th. This meeting is rapidly emerging as one of the highlights of the hunt meeting season with every possible faculty provided by Richard K. Mellon and his hard working committee to see that owners, trainers, riders and the public have all they want in the way of sport, accomodation and entertainment.

RECORD BREAKING POOL

Starting Tuesday night with a pool at the Rolling Rock Club which this year broke all previous records, the ball continues to roll until Sunday night when the last guests leave a rather exhausted group of hosts and hostesses who have feted, wined and dined a contingent numbering in the hundreds from all over the United States. Clem McCarthy did the auctioning of 71 horses entered in the racing during the pools Tuesday and Friday nights and his genial good humor and rapid fire commentary succeeded in bringing the total pool figures to over $50,000 for the two days racing, a record breaking figure for the auction. Top pool was the first race of Saturday evening when diners paid $7.842 for ten horses going postwards with the highest bid $1,300 being given for the Martin Maloney ridden Avis Bois of Alvin Untermeyer's, winner of the mile and a half Baywood over hurdles. In spite of the rattle and chatter of several hundred diners, Clem McCarthy appeared unperturbed, having difficulty only as he remarked, deciding whether a fair feminine guest diner was nodding at him or shaking her head at her table companion. Sometimes when the roar got too unmanageable, he would plaintively remark, "Do I hear anyone chirping?"

INSURANCE FOR RIDERS

Mr. Mellon presided over an informal meeting of the hunt meeting committee on Friday afternoon when one of the major points the committee has been developing, that of insurance for riders, was discussed. An exceptionally fine arrangement has been worked out by the committee through cooperation with the Jockey Guild that have signified their willingness to have the master policy provided the Jockey Guild made available to the hunt meetings. This would result in a very substantial saving over any other policy available and would mean every rider at a hunt meeting would be coverad with insurance for a very nominal sum. This matter has been brought to the attention of President of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association. F. S. von Stade and to Lewis E. Waring, President of the United Hunts. A final recommendation is expected at the time of the meeting of the hunt meeting committee in New York this winter for action on this im-portant matter.

this winter for action on this important matter.

CAROLINA CUP AGAIN.

Harry Kirkover, whose Camden, South Carolina meeting, has always followed Pinehurst on the Spring circuit was one of the Stewards at Rolling Rock and was heartily in favor of the adoption of the insurance program. The Carolina Cup and the Meadow Brook Cup have been among the top timber features in the country. Members of the Committee were very interested in the possibility of reviving both of these timber races and Mr. Kirkover told them all that was necessary for the Carolina Cup were the entries and the race would be carded again. Mr. Mellon told Mr. Kirkover he could count on the support and coperation of the hunt meeting committee which is also hoping to secure enough entries for Meadow Brook whose course, according to Mr. Kirkover, is in superb condition.

N. S. AND H. A. ACTION

whose course, according to an Aria wover, is in superb condition.

N. S. AND H. A. ACTION

George Brooke, 3rd, member of the important rules committee of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association said certain modifications in the rules could be expected as they were being reviewed with particular attention being given to the problem of weights, the feeling having been expressed that weights should be raised to stop so much injurious weight cutting necessary for riders. The amateur question has always been a difficult one to answer, it being one of the major issues between the hunting meetings being staged in the middle west and the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association. The rule at the present time is so hard and fast as to prevent riders in the middle west competing in the amateur races being conducted under N. S. and H. A. rules.

A CASE OF ALE

A note to anyone who parts company with his mount. In some sections of the country a fallen rider is sometimes described as one who "bought a piece of land". Literally in the Charlottesville, Va. country he buys, not the land but a case of ale. Mrs. Page Jennings was the first buyer to approach the dealer.

Numerous and the bury, va. has been represented in the show rings by her grey 4-year-old, Mountbatten. Numerous championships have been won by this green hunter, the most recent one the championship of that division at the Bryn Mawr Show. He has been ridden by Alec Calvert of Warrenton, Va., but at Bryn Mawr Mrs. Calvert was up in ladies' green hunters and the green hunter stake. Too excited to lead Mountbatten into the ring for the conformation judging, she suffered on the sidelines, all to no avail while he won the blue. It's now away from Virginia to the Pennsylvania stable of Mrs. John Kehoe, Jr. where he will join Magno, the well known working hunter which has helped decorate this tackroom with ribbons.

JUST A RANGE HORSE

Banjo, a bald faced bay range horse, went on to lusher pastures last week. Most Sacramento horserange men are familiar with his story, so a terse account of why he deserves special mention should suffice. Shortly before Pearl Harbor, Dick Desmond, son of Senator Earl Desmond, was swimming this horse across a river near his father's ranch when the animal began to plunge wildly. Thinking to help Banjo, Dick slid from his back and started to swim, but the current was stronger than he bargained for and in short order he was fighting for his life. His heavy boots were slowly dragging him under the surface when Banjo circled and came by close enough for Dick to catch hold of a stirrup. In this manner they both reached solid footing and safety. Banjo was not of any pure breed; nobody knew who were his sire and dam. He was just a range horse that owed the human race nothing—he had raised himself. But there is no doubt that his name appears in that shining column of the book kept by the guardian angels for those of their own kind, and that there his discription reads, "He was bred right." ly before Pearl Harbor, Dick Des-mond, son of Senator Earl Desmond, tion reads, "He was bred right.

LIGHT TICK

The Farmington Hunt Club Horse Show had judges in the ring and judges on the rails. During the Modified Olympic (1st day), the railroad sign was decorated with burning flares and Grover Vandevender and Major Pete approached the jump, Major Pete took off but hit the jump lightly, failing to knock it and causing the flares to land on the ground. Observed George P. Greenhalgh, Sr. "That should be called a light tick."

Great Aunt Amelia has had to put off her trip to the U. S. for a while. It appears that during the Dublin show week she picked out three fat American pigeons and talked them into a couple of poker sessions. into a couple of poker sessions. I never saw the equal of it; even your American pals were impressed. He took his horses over? difficult fences without a single sed. He took his horses over 12 difficult fences without a single fault. Next to that performance was the remarkable turnout in the children's classes. They were thicker than flies on a jam jar. Entries in five classes totalled 392. A lot of them rode bette than their fathers and mothers, but some made noises just like their sires and dams; selfish unsporting noises. But 'bles their black little hearts' the day will come when they'll learn to unsporting noises. But bles their black little hearts' the day will come when they'll lean to lose with the same good grace that goes with winning. Someone ought to write a book on the meaning of true sportsmanship. It would be a great help to the younger generation, and if some of the kids were to real it aloud to their parents they night all learn a thing or two. Another thing a lot of doing parents might remember, is that their children are not magicians. parents might remember, is that their children are not magiciaus. They just can't handle anything on four legs. The perfect mount isn't always available, but be tween you and me and the wall the young ones would be a lit better off under-mounted rather than over-mounted. They would be safer, happier and have more time to concentrate on a good seat and hands."
